Bel Air Chateau

Special Presentation : Episode HAMH1-S03 -- More Projects >

Monumental in land, size and craftsmanship, this French chateau is located in Bel Air, Calif. When the homeowners hired architect Richardson Robertson III to build a French palace right here in America, they had only one rule—think big.

And think big Robertson did! Genuine 24-karat-gold is sprinkled liberally throughout. The curtains were recreated from the original 18th century fabric swatches of Marie Antoinette. And how about furniture fit for a king? A Louis the 15th chair sits near a Louis the 16th desk and is surrounded by Louis the 14th keepsakes. Built of the grandest materials with furnishings fit for a museum, this chateau is nothing short of a home sweet amazing home.
